

Fashionable Fixes

Psst! Charleston's awesome twosome for bridal fashion styling and fixes—Lindsey Nowak of LindseyNowak.com and Cacky Rivers of CackysBrideAid.com—recently told us what every gal should have on hand on the Big Day. Pack your own emergency kit today

- deodorant wipes*  These act like a Magic Eraser for removing deodorant marks.
- bandages*  Stock up on both normal and blister varieties.
- peppermints*  Try Altoids for the strongest hit.
- pain reliever*  Someone will thank you heartily; powders work the fastest.
- bobby pins*  Have brown, black, and blonde-colored pins for everyone in your wedding party.
- tissue*  Look for small travel packs that easily fit in clutches.
- hair spray*  Opt for Big Sexy Hair and pack Suave's dry shampoo, too.
- mini-toothbrush*  Refresh on the go (try Wisps) without the risk of splattering your gown.
- blotting sheets*  Blot, don't wipe, to soak up oil without smearing makeup.
- sewing kit*  Sewing yourself into a gown is nothing to be ashamed of.
- lint roller*  Anyone wearing a wrap or tux will need one of these. Promise.
- fashion tape*  Apply one piece to the garment and another to skin to hold clothing in place.
- moleskin*  This adhesive cotton padding makes peace with mean shoes.
- clear bra straps*  Non-traditional necklines and well-endowed women need these secret weapons.
